Law on corporate due diligence in supply chains

Dear business partners, the Supply Chain Due Diligence Act (LkSG) came into force in Germany on January 1, 2023. For companies with more than 3,000 employees, this entails duties of care. As direct suppliers to such companies, we are also required to observe and comply with social and ecological issues in our supply chain.

ZIEHL industrie-elektronik GmbH + Co KG is a company based in Germany and is committed to ecological and socially responsible corporate management.

We are of course happy to comply with the prohibitions in §2 LkSG and expect our suppliers to also adhere to them in their actions. A letter has therefore been sent to our suppliers to confirm this to us. This was also stored in our system.

At the moment we are not aware of anything contradictory.

During an annual supplier assessment in accordance with DIN EN ISO 9001, the quality, reliability and certifications of our suppliers are also checked, evaluated and, if necessary, conclusions are drawn. We are committed to ensuring traceability and transparency for our suppliers products.

We hope and look forward to further constructive cooperation.

With kind regards

Andreas Kaßen
Deputy Head of Sales
